

GRANIS CRIMINALLY RESPONSIBLE

Coroner Mix Attributes Trolley Collision to Carelessness and Negligence of Motorman

COULD HAVE AVERTED THE ACCIDENT

"If He had been on the Lookout" Declares the Coroner—All of the Appliances of the Car Found to be in Good Running Order at Time of the Fatality—Air-brake Tested and Found to be All Right

New Haven, Conn., June 5.—Coroner Mix late today handed down his findings on the trolley collision at East Brook on Memorial day, in which James Malone of Orange was instantly killed and others injured, finding that Robert R. Granis, motorman of the car which crashed head-on into a car ahead, criminally responsible for the death of Malone.

Recital of Circumstances.

The coroner in his finding recites the circumstances leading up to the accident, how car No. 142 was slowed up and came almost to a stop to allow a passenger to get off, and how car No. 138, run by Granis, running in the rear of car 142, collided with the latter and caused James Malone to receive injuries to his brain and spinal cord, breaking his right and left thighs and numerous bruises and abrasions in his body, which caused his death, and was.

Motorman Not Keeping Good Lookout.

I find that said Motorman Robert R. Granis, knowing that he was running in the rear of said car No. 142, which was filled with passengers, should have been keeping a good lookout ahead and watching closely the movements of said car 142, and that if he had been doing so said collision could have been averted.

Was on Return Trip.

I find that said Motorman Robert R. Granis on the morning of May 30, 1911, went on duty at 11:20 a. m., and that he left with said car 138 at about 2:30 p. m. to run from Derby to Yale field, and was on his return trip when the collision occurred.

CONNECTICUT MAY HAVE TO ESTABLISH LEPER CAMP.

New York and Massachusetts Decline to Take Hartford Victim.

Hartford, Conn., June 5.—Health officials of the state of New York have declined to allow Hartford's patient, who has been at the Hartford Hospital for several weeks, to be taken to the New York leper colony. Dr. F. C. Deland, superintendent of the board of health, received word to that effect today.

Massachusetts has already declined to take the case off Hartford's hands, the board of health is a number of days ago declined to make of the patient. The man, who is about 40 years of age, is said to have the disease in its early stage. The physicians declare there is no danger of other persons contracting the disease, but the patient is kept isolated at the hospital. The city board of health may establish a camp somewhere for the patient to spend the rest of his days in.

STABBED TO DEATH IN A ROW AT BALL GAME.

John Cronin of Belleville, N. J., Has His Windpipe Severed.

Newark, N. J., June 4.—A baseball game between the Newark and Jersey City clubs developed into a fatal row over a close ninth inning play. John Cronin, 35 years old, of Belleville, was striking the ball when he was struck in the throat and his windpipe was severed. He died in an ambulance which was taking him to a hospital.

JOHN HAYS HAMMOND ARRIVES AT LONDON.

Will Represent United States at Coronation of King George.

London, June 4.—John Hays Hammond, the special ambassador to represent the United States at the coronation of King George V, arrived in London tonight. Mr. Hammond was met by the American ambassador and proceeded to the Stratton house where he will remain until June 9. He will then proceed to Paris, remaining in the French capital until a day or two before the coronation.

OBITUARY.

Col. F. M. Locke.

El Paso, Texas, June 5.—Col. F. M. Locke, chairman of the Texas secession convention, died suddenly last night at his home here, aged 57. Colonel Locke fought through the Mexican war and was a colonel in the Confederate army.

Prof. William Russell Dudley, 62 years old, emeritus professor of systematic botany in Yale and Stanford universities, died today at his home in Guilford, Conn. Professor Dudley's birthplace, Professor Dudley was largely attended by the Cornell faculty sixteen years.

Funeral of George Kendall.

Sheffield, Conn., June 4.—The funeral of the late George Kendall, former state bank examiner, was held from his home here today with services conducted by Rev. Dr. R. Kennedy, Jr., pastor of the First Congregational church, assisted by Rev. W. A. Smith of the Second Baptist church. The funeral was largely attended by members of the different organizations of which he was a member. Burial was in Woodlawn cemetery.

Learned Wedding Couple a Ring.

Greenwich, June 5.—Because he had neglected to bring along a wedding ring yesterday, Abigail Cady of Cornwall, N. Y., was obliged to go to the jeweler's to wait another day before the knot was tied. The bride was Miss Fannie Robinson of Hartford, N. Y. It was the bride's sister who saved the postponement of the ceremony by loaning a ring, the pastor refusing to marry them until there was a ring for the bride.

Cabled Paragraphs

Berlin, June 5.—A woman was taken to a hospital here today suffering from suspected cholera. An examination by bacteriologists is now being made.

Madrid, France, June 5.—Marquis Emilio de Ojeda, the Spanish ambassador to the Vatican at the time of the rupture of diplomatic relations between the Madrid government and the Holy See and formerly minister at Washington, died here today.

Saloniki, Turkey, June 5.—Big stores of dynamite and complete apparatus for the manufacture of bombs have been discovered in a secluded den in the Koprucay District. The explosives were found close to the railway over which Sultan Mehmed of Turkey was on a forthcoming tour of Macedonia.

Dublin, June 5.—John Dillon, national leader of the Irish party for East Mayo, was dangerously injured about the head and back in an automobile accident near the town of Mullak, 45 miles northwest of Dublin. The injured man rallied, however, and was removed to Dugalk, where he now lies in a hospital. The doctors hold out hopes of his recovery.

Manila, June 5.—The Philippine authorities are holding a show-up found on the British steamer "Protestant," which arrived here today. The man embarked on the vessel at Singapore while coal was being taken on, and it is suspected that he is a revolutionary. The Russian anarchist for whom the British police have been seeking is still at large. The British police have been seeking a revolutionary who is believed to be in the Philippines. The British police have been seeking a revolutionary who is believed to be in the Philippines.

Air Pump in Good Condition.

I find that immediately after said collision the air pump which controls the brakes of car No. 138 was tested and found to be in working order.

Ran Car Carelessly and Negligently.

I find that said car No. 138 was running at a reckless and negligent manner at the time of the collision, and that by reason of said careless, reckless and negligent manner of running car he caused it to collide with and wreck said car No. 142, and thereby caused the death of said James Malone, and I find that said Robert R. Granis is criminally responsible for the death of said James Malone.

Granis Said Brakes Wouldn't Work.

Shortly after the accident Granis was placed under arrest under the coroner's orders and later released on bail. In a statement issued through his attorney the following day Granis said that the brakes of the car he was driving did not work properly, and that when he tried to stop his car quickly, to avoid the collision, he was unable to do so.

Was on Return Trip.

I find that said Motorman Robert R. Granis on the morning of May 30, 1911, went on duty at 11:20 a. m., and that he left with said car 138 at about 2:30 p. m. to run from Derby to Yale field, and was on his return trip when the collision occurred.

WATER LOWERED AROUND THE WRECKED BATTLESHIP.

PUMPING IS NOW UNDER WAY

Several Weeks Before She Can Be Released from Mud—Bodies May Then Be Recovered.

Havana, June 5.—The preliminary stage in the work of exposing the wreck of the battleship Maine was completed today, when repairs to the caisson which was ruptured two weeks ago were finished by the driving of the last timbering piles.

Immediately the work of pumping out the water from the main caisson, in the bathos last week, and centrifugal pumps were used and the water level had been lowered two feet when darkness set in and the work was suspended.

Retaining Walls Stable.

At this stage of the operations no indications have been observed of any instability in the retaining walls. The pumping will be resumed tomorrow morning and it is expected that the water level in the caisson will be lowered about five feet.

Will Expose the Deck.

This will suffice to expose most of the after-part of the deck, which was rendered from immediate effects of the explosion. This mainly affected the forward part of the ship from a point just aft of the forward ten-inch turret.

Retaining Wall to Be Tested.

After a considerable quantity of water has been removed the pumping operations probably will be suspended ten days so that the most careful tests of the stability of the retaining wall may be made before the entire wreck is freed from the water.

Mud Will Be Removed.

If the security of the retaining wall is considered satisfactory the pumping will proceed rapidly, after which the mud in which the wreck is embedded will be removed, permitting an inspection of the bottom of the caisson and the determination beyond all question of the character of the explosion by which the ship was destroyed.

Present indications are that some weeks must elapse before a complete exposure of the wreck is made. The lowering of the water level, the work is merely giving a clearer view of the after deck than has been possible heretofore.

Cofferdam Will Meet Expectations.

The most important feature of the removal of the water so far is the strong indication that the main cofferdam will fulfill all the expectations of the army engineers by resisting the tremendous pressure from the water outside.
